To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing to voice my opposition to Federal Register Notice 83 FR 34111. As a researcher in economics, I and my colleagues rely on census data to study and understand the health of the economy, sources of inequality, and human behavior. These insights can often drive smart policies that work for Americans. The census data is an incredibly powerful tool, and being able to access it with relative ease is part of that power.
